AHAA's Plan's for 2012

We celebrated our fifteenth year in June as a non-profit alliance in service to the community. As 2011 comes to an end we express our appreciation to all who have helped with our programs this year. We look forward to an eventful 2012 as well.

As a membership organization founded in 1996 we continue to serve the general public and professional community representing healing arts instructors, practitioners, businesses and organizations. As we look ahead our plans for the future include expansion of this newsletter to include additional articles, editorial commentary and advertising opportunities.

As with our AHAA! print magazine that we published for many years our quarterly newsletter includes regional and national information, the schedule of our monthly educational programs, and links to our website and Resources directory.

We are also expanding our community outreach to provide services to greater numbers of people in the community. In order to do this we continue to rely on membership and volunteer support for our activities. As a 501(c)3 educational organization this includes opportunities for professional connections, personal growth and supportive exchanges with health conscious individuals.

AHAA's educational peacebuilding programs have a global reach with participation in the Inner Peace Treaty™ journaling project and Peace Pulse™ subtle energy healing practice as part of a comprehensive program called Peace Novella™.

The newest addition to AHAA's Peace Novella™ educational programs is the Peace Novella Players™ ensemble of creative and performing artists dedicated to presenting inspiring healing arts themed educational programs within an entertaining format. See page 3 of this newsletter for additional information about our presentations for schools, conferences, faith communities and regional events.

AHAA's Programs & Resources

As an educational non-profit organization we offer a full range of healing arts and sciences programs and services. Our community represents the diversity of modalities historically considered helpful as healing resources. Many of these modalities date back centuries and even thousands of years as successful healing practices. (See the About Our Organization description on page 3).

These resources include the healing potentials that evolve through supportive interactions with others. This need not be limited to the dedicated healing professionals and educators within our community. It includes you as a healing resource drawing upon your own healing experiences throughout your life. As a healing resource yourself this can include sharing about the help you have received from others. This help can come from your family, friends, co-workers and others you encounter on a day to day basis. We invite you to share your experiences with us as part of our community of volunteers, practitioners and educators.
